Where To Start When Your Business Growth Stops

Where are you at in the life cycle of your business? Are you thriving or are you on a decline?

Regardless of your answer, the most important factor is whether or not you have a growth strategy in place. If you don't have one, it's time.

Even the most successful of companies are set up to fall, jeopardizing the valuation of their business if they cannot demonstrate their ability to thrive in the future.

Learning How To Ditch The Stress

YOU ARE IN CONTROL!
FocalPoint Business Coach Mikke Pierson shares how he learned to lead a happier, more relaxed and focused life - all by choosing to resolve problems without falling down the rabbit hole of stress.

Mikke's analogy will impact not only how you look at stress, but as well as time management, patience, empathy, or any other emotional feelings that come into play during our daily lives.

Your Brand Needs A Story

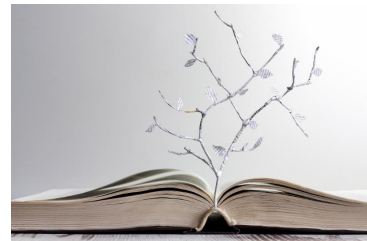

People love a good story. A story that inspires will build a lasting connection with your audience.

With that...did you know that most purchasing decisions are based on emotion?

If your customers feel linked to you on a more emotional level, then they will be driven by that connection to return to you over and over, and to send more valuable customers your way.
